

Unboxing Your Ledger Flex 14-01-2026:

Your Ledger Flex, in combination with the Ledger Wallet app, transforms your experience by putting you in control of your digital life. This powerful duo is your gateway to the decentralized world, and it all begins with establishing hardware-level security.

Your private keys—the only things that grant access to your crypto—are generated and stored entirely offline within your device’s Secure Element chip, protecting them from the countless threats that can affect internet-connected devices. From there, you will be prompted to create your master backup: a unique 24-word Secret Recovery Phrase. This phrase ensures your assets are recoverable even if you lose your device.

Once set up, you can seamlessly manage your assets through Ledger Wallet to securely buy, sell, swap, and stake your crypto. Every transaction is verified on your Ledger Flex’s secure touchscreen, ensuring that what you see is what you sign.

In the past, the fear of managing complex transactions has kept users from embracing secure self-custody. Ledger understands that a new era of blockchains, token ecosystems, and dApps needs hardware that complements it seamlessly. That’s why Ledger Flex combines institutional-grade security with an intuitive, user-friendly design.

You don’t need to be a technical expert. The signer and Ledger Wallet guide you through every step, making secure self-custody feel seamless, whether you’re new to crypto or a seasoned pro.

As with all devices in the ecosystem, Ledger Flex is built on Ledger’s proven security model, a combination of hardware and software so robust that no Ledger device has ever been hacked. This security doesn’t come from a single feature, but from several core elements working in concert.

It begins with keeping your private keys completely offline within a Secure Element chip, the same tamper-proof chip used in passports and credit cards.

For a full breakdown of how these components make Ledger reliably secure, explore our in-depth article on Ledger’s Security Model.
